

2004 Hall of Fame Inductee Al 'Rags' Raglin – Denver

Al Raglin graduated from Brooker T. Washington High School in Atlanta, Georgia in 1950. He then enrolled for a year at Metro State College of Denver. In 1951, Al entered the military. He was stationed at Lowry Air Force Base and then went on to the Air Force Academy Financial Centers' 9th Aerospace Wing in Colorado Springs where he retired in 1976.

Al umpired from the 1960's until his retirement in 1997 and his name was well known at numerous A & B playoffs in the 60's and 70's. He had numerous state playoffs and honors in all classifications. Al was in the Big Eight officiating for many years. He was in the WAC and had playoffs in the mid-80's. Al was also involved in the Northern Colorado Division Playoffs.

Al's contributions to the sport consisted of such wonderful things as working in the Denver Public Schools after school sports activities. He volunteered to work anger management classes and gave of his time to the church group with young children and middle school ages as well.